Christmas Oratorio

Weihnachts-Oratorium, BWV 248
Johann Sebastian Bach (1685–1750)
Nine virtual programs offer some of the finest works in the cantata and oratorio repertory. You’ll enjoy the Washington Bach Consort as you’ve never heard them before, but you’ll also gain revelations and insights into the music itself coming from our two resident Bach scholars, Michael Marissen and Daniel R. Melamed. Supported in part by grants from the National Endowment for the Humanities and the J. Reilly Lewis Legacy Fund, Bach Interactions is a new digital concert experience offering the expressive heights of Bach’s musical language as well as the story behind its creation.

The series features three renowned cantatas, Wachet auf, ruft uns die Stimme, BWV 140, Aus der Tiefen rufe ich, Herr, zu dir, BWV 131, and Nun komm, der Heiden Heiland, BWV 61, followed by all six parts of Bach’s beloved Christmas Oratorio, BWV 248. Each part will be presented on its intended day of liturgical observance, over the twelve days of Christmas to the Feast of the Epiphany (January 6).

Bach Interactions is supported by gifts from the J. Reilly Lewis Legacy Fund and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Am 1sten Heil. Weyhnacht-Feyertage, frühe zu St. Nicolai und nachmittage zu St. Thomæ.

Tutti
Jauchzet, frohlocket, auf, preiset die Tage,
Rühmet, was heute der Höchste getan!
Lasset das Zagen, verbannet die Klage,
Stimmet voll Jauchzen und Fröhlichkeit an!
Dienet dem Höchsten mit herrlichen Chören,
Laßt uns den Namen des Herrschers verehren!

ORATORIO that was performed musically over the Christmas season in the two principal churches in Leipzig. 1734.

On the first day of Christmas, early at St. Nicholas and in the afternoon at St. Thomas.

All
Shout, exult, arise, praise the days [of Christmas],
Glorify what the Most High this day has done!
Leave off faintheartedness, ban lamenting;
Break forth into song, full of shouting and rejoicing!
Serve the Most High with glorious choirs;
Let us revere the ruler’s name!

Evangelist
Es begab sich aber zu der Zeit, daß ein Gebot von dem Kaiser Augusto ausging, daß alle Welt geschätzt würde. Und jedermann ging, daß er sich schätzen ließe, ein jeglicher in seine Stadt. Da machte sich auch auf Joseph aus Galiläa, aus der Stadt Nazareth, in das jüdische Land zur Stadt David, die da heißt Bethlehem; darum, daß er von dem Hause und Geschlechte David war, auf daß er sich schätzen ließe mit Maria, seinem vertrauten Weibe, die war schwanger. Und als sie daselbst waren, kam die Zeit, daß sie gebären sollte.

Recitativ
Nun wird mein liebster Bräutigam,
Nun wird der Held aus Davids Stamm
Zum Trost, zum Heil der Erden
Einmal geboren werden.
Nun wird der Stern aus Jakob scheinen,
Sein Strahl bricht schon hervor.
Auf, Zion, und verlasse nun das Weinen,
Dein Wohl steigt hoch empor!

ARIA
Bereite dich, Zion, mit zärtlichen Trieben,
Den Schönsten, den Liebsten bald bei dir zu sehen!
Deine Wangen
Müssen heut viel schöner prangen,
Eile, den Bräutigam sehnsüchtig zu lieben!

Choral
Wie soll ich dich empfangen
Und wie begegn’ ich dir,
O aller Welt Verlangen,
O meiner Seelen Zier?
O Jesu, Jesu, setze
Mir selbst die Fackel bei,
Damit, was dich ergötze,
Mir kund und wissend sei.

Evangelist
Und sie gebar ihren ersten Sohn undwickelte ihn in Windeln und legte ihn in eine Krippen, denn sie hatten sonst keinen Raum in der Herberge.

Evangelist
But it happened at that time that a commandment went out from the emperor Augustus that all the [Roman] world be appraised. And everyone [from Judea] went, that he might have himself appraised, each one to his [ancestral] city. Then Joseph too made out to go up from Galilee, from the city of Nazareth, into the Jewish region to the city of David, which is called Bethlehem, this, because he was of the house and lineage of David, so that he might have himself appraised with Mary, his betrothed wife, who was pregnant. And while they were there, the time came that she should give birth.

Recitative
Now will my most beloved bridegroom,
Now will the champion from the tribe of David—
For the consolation, for the salvation of the earth—
At last be born.
Now will the star out of Jacob shine;
Its stream of light is already breaking forth.
Arise, Zion, and forsake weeping now;
Your well-being lifts on high!

ARIA
Make yourself ready, Zion, with tender desires,
To see the Most Handsome, the Most Beloved,
Soon at your side! This day your cheeks
Must sparkle much lovelier;
Hurry on, to love the Bridegroom most ardently!

Chorale
How shall I receive you,
And how shall I meet you,
O desire of all the world,
O decoration of my soul?
O Jesus; Jesus, set
The torch next to me yourself,
So that whatever brings you enjoyment
May be manifest and known to me.

Evangelist
And she gave birth to her firstborn son and wrapped him in bands of cloth and laid him in a manger, for they otherwise had no space in the lodgings.
Choral und Recitativ
Er ist auf Erden kommen arm,
Wer will die Liebe recht erhöhn,
Die unser Heiland vor uns hegt?
Daß er unser sich erbarm,
Ja, wer vermag es einzusehen,
Wie ihn der Menschen Leid bewegt?
Und in dem Himmel mache reich,
Des Höchsten Sohn kömmt in die Welt,
Weil ihm ihr Heil so wohl gefällt,
Und seinen lieben Engeln gleich.
So will er selbst als Mensch geboren werden.
Kyrieleis.

ARIA
Großer Herr, o starker König,
Liebster Heiland, o wie wenig
Achtest du der Erden Pracht!
Der die ganze Welt erhält,
Ihre Pracht und Zier erschaffen,
Muß in harten Krippen schlafen.

Choral
Ach mein herzliebes Jesulein,
Mach dir ein rein sanft Bettelein,
Zu ruhn in meines Herzens Schrein,
Daß ich nimmer vergesse dein!

Chorale und recitative
He has come on earth poor,
Who will properly extol the love
That our Savior feels for us?
That he might have mercy on us,
Indeed, who is capable of perceiving it,
How human suffering moves him?
And might make [us] rich, in heaven,
The Son of the Most High comes into the world
Because its salvation pleases him so well
And [might make us] equal to his dear angels.
That he himself wants to be born as man.
Lord have mercy.

ARIA
Great Lord, o mighty King,
Most beloved Savior, o how little
Do you regard the earth’s splendor!
He, who upholds the entire world,
[Who] has created its splendor and decoration,
Must sleep in harsh mangers.

Chorale
Oh my beloved little Jesus,
Make for yourself a perfectly soft little bed,
To rest in the shrine of my heart,
That I may never forget you!

Evangelist

Und der Engel sprach zu ihnen

Engel

Fürchtet euch nicht! Siehe, ich verkündige euch große Freude, die allem Volke widerfahren wird; denn euch ist heute der Heiland geboren, welcher ist Christus, der Herr, in der Stadt David.

Recitativ
Was Gott dem Abraham verheißen,
Das läßt er nun dem Hirtenchor Erfüllt erweisen.
Ein Hirt hat alles das zuvor
Von Gott erfahren müssen;
Und nun muß auch ein Hirt die Tat,
Was er damals versprochen hat,
Zuerst erfüllet wissen.

ARIA
Frohe Hirten, eilt, ach eilet,
Eh ihr euch zu lang verweilet,
Eilt, das holde Kind zu sehn!
Geht, die Freude heißt zu schön,
Sucht die Anmut zu gewinnen,
Geht und labet Herz und Sinnen!

Evangelist
Und das habt zum Zeichen: Ihr werdet finden das Kind in Windeln gewickelt und in einer Krippe liegen.

Choral
Schaut hin, dort liegt im finstern Stall,
Des Herrschaft gehet überall.
Da Speise vormals sucht ein Rind,
Da ruhet itzt der Jungfrau’n Kind.

Recitativ
So geht denn hin, ihr Hirten, geht,
Daß ihr das Wunder seht!
Und findet ihr des Höchsten Sohn
In einer harten Krippe liegen,
So singet ihm bei seiner Wiegen
Aus einem süßen Ton
Und mit gesamtem Chor
Dies Lied zur Ruhe vor:

ARIA
Schlafe, mein Liebster, genieße der Ruh,
Wache nach diesem vor aller Gedeihen!
Labe die Brust,
Empfinde die Lust,
Wo wir unser Herz erfreuen!

Evangelist

And the angel said to them:

Angel

Fear not! Look, I announce to you great joy, which will come to all people; for to you this day is born in the city of David the Savior, who is Christ, the Lord.

Recitative
What God had pledged to Abraham,
He now lets be shown to the chorus of shepherds
As fulfilled.
About all of this a shepherd [Abraham]
Had to hear from God beforehand; and now also a Shepherd has to be the first to come to know the deed—
What he [God] at that time had promised—
As fulfilled.

ARIA
Joyful shepherds, hurry, oh hurry,
Before you tarry too long;
Hurry, to see the pleasing child!
Go, the joy is all too lovely;
Seek to gain the refinement [of this child];
Go and refresh your hearts and minds!

Evangelist

And take this for a sign: you will find the child wrapped in bands of cloth and lying in a manger.

Chorale
Look there, yonder in the dark stall lies he whose Lordship ranges all over [to the ends of the earth].
Where once an ox sought food,
There now rests the Virgin’s child.

Recitative
So go forth, then, you shepherds; go,
That you may see the marvel!
And should you find the Son of the Most High
Lying in a harsh manger,
Then sing for him by his cradle
—in a sweet tone
And with united choir—
This lullaby:

ARIA
Sleep, my Most Beloved, enjoy your rest,
Awake after this for the flourishing of all!
Refresh your breast,
Feel the delight
[There, in your rest], where we gladden our hearts!
Evangelist
And immediately there was with the angel the multitude of the heavenly legions, lauding God and saying:

Chorus of angels
May honor be to God on high, and peace on earth, and to humankind [God’s] great pleasure.

Recitative
Quite right, you angels: shout and sing
That for us this day has prospered so beautifully!
Arise then! We will join with you in song;
It can gladden us just like you.

Chorale
We sing to you, amid your host,
With all our power, “laud, praise, and honor,”
That you, o long desired guest,
Have now presented yourself.

Tutti
Herrscher des Himmels, erhöre das Lallen,
Laß dir die matten Gesänge gefallen,
Wenn dich dein Zion mit Psalmen erhöht!
Höre der Herzen frohlockendes Preisen,
Wenn wir dir itzo die Ehrfurcht erweisen,
Weil unsre Wohlfahrt befestiget steht!

Evangelist
Und da die Engel von ihnen gen Himmel fuhren, sprachen
die Hirten untereinander:

Chorus
Lasset uns nun gehen gen Bethlehem und die Geschichte
sehen, die da geschehen ist, die uns der Herr kundgetan hat.

On the third day of Christmas. At St. Nicholas.

All
Ruler of heaven, give heed to our babble,
let our feeble songs please you,
when your Zion extols you with psalms!
Hear the exultant praises of our hearts,
when we now show you reverence
because our welfare stands fast!

Evangelist
And when the angels went away from them into heaven,
the shepherds said to one another:

Chorus
Let’s go, now, into Bethlehem and see what the story is that’s taking place there, which the Lord has made known to us.

Recitativ
Er hat sein Volk getröst',
Er hat sein Israel erlöst,
Die Hülf aus Zion hergesendet
Und unser Leid geendet.
Seht, Hirten, dies hat er getan;
Geht, dieses trefft ihr an!

Choral
Dies hat er alles uns getan,
Sein groß Lieb zu zeigen an;
Des freu sich alle Christenheit
Und dank ihm des in Ewigkeit.
Kyrieleis!

ARIA
Herr, dein Mitleid, dein Erbarmen
Tröstet uns und macht uns frei.
Deine holde Gunst und Liebe,
Deine wundersamen Triebe
Machen deine Vatertreu
Wieder neu.

Evangelist
Und sie kamen eilend und funden beide, Mariam und Joseph, dazu das Kind in der Krippe liegen. Da sie es aber gesehen hatten, breiteten sie das Wort aus, welches zu ihnen von diesem Kind gesaget war. Und alle, für die es kam, wunderten sich der Rede, die ihnen die Hirten gesaget hatten. Maria aber behielt alle diese Worte und bewegte sie in ihrem Herzen.

ARIA
Schließe, mein Herze, dies selige Wunder
Fest in deinem Glauben ein!
Lasse dies Wunder, die göttlichen Werke,
Immer zur Stärke
Deines schwachen Glaubens sein!

Recitativ
Ja, ja, mein Herz soll es bewahren,
Was es an dieser holden Zeit
Zu seiner Seligkeit
Für sicheren Beweis erfahren.

Recitative
He has comforted his people,
he has redeemed his Israel,
sent salvation out of Zion,
and ended our suffering.
Look, shepherds, this he has done;
go, you will come upon this!

Chorale
All this he has done for us
to show his great love;
for this let all of Christendom be glad
and thank him for this in eternity.
Lord have mercy!

ARIA
Lord, your compassion, your mercy
comforts us and makes us free.
Your pleasing favor and love,
your wondrous desires,
make your Fatherly faithfulness
new again.

Evangelist
And they came in a hurry and found both Mariam and Joseph, and also the child lying in the manger. But when they had seen it, they spread the word that had been told to them of this child. And all who met with it were surprised at the account that the shepherds had told them. But Mary kept all these words and tossed them about within her heart.

ARIA
My heart, include this blessed marvel steadfastly in your faith!
Let this marvel, [let all] the Godly deeds, be ever at hand for the strengthening of your weak faith!

Recitative
Yes, yes, my heart should safeguard
what it at this pleasing time,
for its [eternal] blessedness,
has experienced as sure proof.
Choral
Ich will dich mit Fleiß bewahren,
Ich will dir
Leben hier,
Dir will ich abfahren,
Mit dir will ich endlich schweben
Voller Freud
Ohne Zeit
Dort im andern Leben.

Evangelist
Und die Hirten kehrten wieder um, preiseten und lobten
Gott um alles, das sie gesehen und gehört hatten, wie denn zu ihnen gesaget war.

Choral
Seid froh dieweil,
Seid froh dieweil,
Daß euer Heil
Ist hie ein Gott und auch ein Mensch geboren,
Der, welcher ist
Der Herr und Christ
In Davids Stadt, von vielen auserkoren.

[Tutti]
[Herrscher des Himmels, erhöre das Lallen . . .]

Evangelist
And the shepherds went back again, praising and lauding
God for all that they had seen and heard, just as had been told to them.

Chorale
I will safeguard you [in my heart
and memory] with diligence;
I will here [in this life] live to you;
to you will I retreat;
with you will I at last hover,
full of joy,
time no longer,
there in the afterlife

Chorale
Be joyful meanwhile,
be joyful meanwhile,
that your Salvation
has been born here [on earth] as God and also as man—he who is the Lord and Christ,
in the city of David, chosen of many [cities].

[All]
[Ruler of heaven, give heed to our babble . . .]

Recent highlights include an extensive tour of sixteen concerts around Europe singing Bach’s Matthäus-Passion with the Monteverdi Choir and English Baroque Soloists led by Sir John Eliot Gardiner; an ensemble to which he returned for a further European tour, where international reviews commented on his “purity of timbre” and “homogeneity of tone.” He also performed concerts of Händel’s Messiah with the Royal Scottish National Orchestra, Purcell’s King Arthur with the Academy of Ancient Music in London, and Mozart’s Requiem with Orkiestra Historyczna in Poland. Further highlights include tours of Germany with Freiburg Barockorchester, and Balthasar-Neumann Choir und Ensemble, performing at prestigious venues across Germany, the Netherlands, and Belgium.
Jacob Perry Jr. is an avid chamber and solo tenor based in the Washington metro area. Possessed of a keen interest in seventeenth- and eighteenth century culture from a young age, Colin St. Martin began playing the traverso at the age of fourteen. He began his formal studies at the Royal Conservatory of Music (Brussels, Belgium) receiving a First Prize under the tutelage of the renowned master, Bart Kuijken. St. Martin continued his studies with graduate work at Indiana University where he was the traverso instructor. From 1993 to 2010, St. Martin served as the early-flute professor at Peabody Conservatory. He continues to maintain a private studio, in addition to giving numerous masterclasses and performances throughout the USA. Mr St Martin is currently the traverso professor at Indiana University’s Jacobs School of Music.

As a performer, St. Martin has appeared with many of North America’s finest period-instrument ensembles, including Arcanum, Washington Bach Consort, Tafelmusik, American Bach Soloists, North Carolina Baroque Orchestra, Tempesta di Mare, Four Nations, Rebel Baroque Ensemble, Folger Consort, National Cathedral Baroque Orchestra and Opera Lafayette. Colin is also an active soloist in his home state of Texas, where he is the principal traverso player for Ars Lyrica Houston and the Houston Bach Society, in addition to occasionally performing with the Mercury Ensemble. St. Martin’s extensive recording catalogue contains a wide variety of repertoire on such labels as Centaur, ASI Gaudeamus, Lyrichord, Naxos, Focus and Newport Classic labels.

Equally comfortable in early music, recital and concert settings, she was one of the 2009 Art Song Discovery Series winners for the Vocal Arts Society and 2nd prize winner at both the 2010 and 2012 National Association of Teachers of Singing Artist Awards. Laura received her training at The Santa Fe Opera Apprentice Program for Singers, Opera North, and Berkshire Opera, as well as The New England Conservatory and Dartmouth College.

Gregório Taniguchi crafts compelling performances that move audiences. His dedication to rhetoric in music draws listeners to hear historical works as a dynamic and living part of our musical culture, illuminating classics for a modern audience. Contemporary vocal music and new works by emerging composers likewise come alive through his communicative artistry.

Gregório has empowered narratives with an intuitive sense for storytelling as the Evangelist in Bach’s St. John Passion and Christmas Oratorio, Aeneas in Cavalli’s La Didone, Miles Zegner in Missy Mazzoli’s Proving Up, and Septimius in Handel’s Theodora. He has toured Ecuador with the emerging ensemble Las Aves and presented historically-informed 17th-century Italian and Spanish sacred repertoire in the cathedrals of Quito during Holy Week. He advocates for the intimate connections created by chamber music and regularly presents recitals of classic and contemporary art song. He has worked closely with pioneers of the early music movement as well as the next generation, including Paul Elliott, Scott Allen Jarrett, Jeffrey Thomas, and John Butt. As one of the nation’s finest choral artists, he has appeared with Santa Fe Desert Chorale, Clarion Vocal Ensemble, Seraphic Fire, Cantus, Washington Bach Consort, Oregon Bach Festival, and Staunton Music Festival.

ABOUT THE MUSIC: HOW SHALL I RECEIVE YOU?

Modern interest in J. S. Bach as a composer of church music owes a great deal to one celebrated moment: the Berlin performance of a version of his St. Matthew Passion in 1829 under the musical direction of Felix Mendelssohn. The context was a concert, not a liturgy; and the performing organization was the Berlin Sing-Akademie, a bourgeois amateur society that had been founded in the late eighteenth century to promote the private study of great music from the past for the artistic and moral edification of its middle-class members. The effect was sensational, beginning the restoration of Bach's large-scale concerted vocal music to the repertory.

To the concert repertory, that is—this music had become largely unsuited to its original liturgical purposes not long after Bach's death. This was only partly a matter of the notes; it was the text that created problems. Tastes in religious poetry changed rapidly, making the wild and graphic imagery of the Passion's recitatives and arias dated and perhaps tasteless. Even the chorales became outdated; the second half of the eighteenth century saw almost every hymn text revised to suit modern, more rationalistic tastes.

By the 1820s, Bach's passions and other concerted church music was historical, and it is no accident that its revival was in concert performances connected with cultural edification, with reverence for the past, and with a sense of that past as a foundation of German nationhood. The passions came to stand alongside the preludes and fugues of the Well-Tempered Clavier and a few organ works in representing Bach. They were regarded as serious and weighty, full of labyrinthine harmonies and contrapuntal complexities, as well as tragic, lamenting, dramatic and morally uplifting.

Against this background, the Christmas Oratorio was the last of Bach's major vocal-instrumental works to be rediscovered. As writers on Bach's music encountered the Christmas Oratorio they found it difficult to square with the music of the passions and with the style they expected from their composer. The oratorio, in contrast to the passions, was sunny and smiling, simple, and galant—even to the point of suggesting of doubt about Bach's authorship. (Carl Philipp Emanuel Bach was suggested as a possible compiler, for example.) Its lighter style, aligning better with secular music, was a source of puzzlement.

And then they discovered the parody origin of much of the Christmas Oratorio in actual secular compositions—that Bach had reused music composed for other non-liturgical purposes, fitted with new texts. This created multiple problems, if not a crisis. Not only was there the musical style of the oratorio to deal with, there was also the issue of originality, closely associated in the nineteenth century with the concept of genius, and the apparent clash of the solemn purpose of Bach's sacred music with its frivolous secular origins.

The complete edition of Bach's works begun in 1850 was forced to confront this in the preface to its 1856 publication of the Christmas Oratorio. The strategy of the editor, Wilhelm Rust, was to emphasize the role of chorales, which were both sacred and original to the composition, and to declare that the apparent secular origin of the music was essentially a red herring. Bach knew all along, he suggested, that the music he composed for those secular occasions would find use in sacred works. Several problems disappeared with this assertion because the notes became sacred by their nature, conceived that way from the start and remaining so whether used in a secular work or a sacred one. The originality problem was inherently solved, too, because this explanation let Bach off the hook; if he had been planning to use this music in a sacred composition all along then there was no lack of imaginative genius anywhere in the process.

For commentators, there remained the fundamental problem of the Christmas Oratorio's apparent lack of seriousness and weight compared to Bach's passions, and for this there was an interpretive solution that dated from the earliest critical writings on the work dating from the 1840s. The musical antiquarian Carl von Winterfeld argued that Bach’s use of certain chorale melodies deepened the theological seriousness of the Christmas Oratorio, in particular by drawing the work closer to his passion settings.

His principal example is the first chorale in the work, “Wie soll ich dich empfangen?” The text is a verse of an Advent hymn that asks of Jesus, “How shall I receive you?” Bach set this chorale stanza to a melody that students of his music will certainly recognize, but the way Winterfeld identified it was essential. He called the melody “O Haupt voll Blut und Wunden,” familiar to many today in its English-language version, “O sacred head now wounded.” This text is closely associated with the passion story and indeed is a chorale for Holy Week; it was part of a series of hymns that each reflected on a different body part of Jesus.

This was Winterfeld’s opening and he charged through it, expressing wonder at the sounding of the notes of a passion chorale in a Christmas oratorio. He then argued for the close theological relationship between Christmas and Palm Sunday, and by extension to the passion story itself. He suggested that Bach anticipated the passion (and the Passions) by juxtaposing Christmas hymns like “Gelobet seist du, Jesu Christ” and “Vom Himmel hoch, da komm ich her” (both heard in the Christmas Oratorio) with a chorale melody associated with the crucifixion narrative.

This interpretation accomplished several things. For one it made Bach into a deep and serious thinker about the nature of the Christmas story. For another, it tempered the joyous exuberance of the Christmas Oratorio with something somber and presumably more fitting. Most importantly, it tied the Christmas Oratorio, with its suspect lightness and connections to secular music, firmly to Bach’s passions. This was particularly true because the St. Matthew Passion’s interpolated texts include no fewer than five verses of “O Haupt voll Blut und Wunden” and one verse of another hymn that uses the same melody; in many ways this chorale tune stood for that passion setting. And of course the St. Matthew Passion encapsulated everything that was valued about Bach.

This claim persists today—one runs across it again and again in popular and critical writings alike. There is just one problem: In eighteenth-century terms it is almost certainly wrong. It is true that the melody Bach used for “Wie soll ich dich empfangen?” is today known as a passion chorale; in fact it is often called The Passion Chorale, as if there were only one. But this is a modern designation, and in fact one that almost certainly comes from the very centrality of Bach’s St. Matthew Passion in the repertory. In Bach’s time the melody was used for numerous different texts for different seasons, and tended to be identified as “Herzlich tut mich verlangen nach einem seel’gen End” (I long in my heart for a blessed end).

The Christmas Oratorio stanza “Wie soll ich dich empfangen?” is the first of an Advent hymn. It was not in the Leipzig hymnal, but there was an option open to Bach in setting it to music. Because hymn poetry was regular and limited to a relatively small number of metrical patterns and stanza lengths, a hymn text could be sung to a variety of melodies. And in fact a 1736 hymnal published in Leipzig in which Bach had a hand suggests a tune for “Wie soll ich dich empfangen”: “Herzlich tut mich verlangen,” the melody Bach used in the Christmas Oratorio. But it is worth noting that the tune is not called “O Haupt voll Blut und Wunden” there, and that the hymnal also suggests the tune for texts variously assigned to the evening, penitence, communion, Advent, the passion, divine sovereignty and providence, temporal suffering, praise and thanks, death, and the feast of the Purification. Each time it is identified not as “O Haupt voll Blut und Wunden” (the passion text) but as “Herzlich tut mich verlangen,” a meditation on the believer’s wish for death and eternal joy. To Leipzig listeners, this was not exclusively or even primarily a passion melody.

Winterfeld made the same argument about the final chorale of part VI of the Christmas Oratorio, which uses the same tune, this time splendidly set with trumpets and drums. The text, “Nun seid ihr wohl gerochen,” is a verse of the Christmas hymn “Ihr Christen auserkoren.” Like the first chorale in the oratorio it was not in the regular Leipzig hymnal, and its melody was probably not well known there. And as with the first chorale, Bach chose a tune that fit the meter—the same one as he used for “Wie soll ich dich empfangen.” Once again we are on shaky ground in claiming that his listeners would have heard a reference to the passion. We need to recognize that this was an argument with a purpose: drawing the Christmas Oratorio closer to the Bach passions with which it was implicitly and explicitly compared, and against which it had a hard time making a case for itself as a piece worthy of a devout composer.

The Berlin Sing-Akademie did not perform the Christmas Oratorio until 1857, the work’s first complete performance—Bach almost certainly never performed the whole work himself at one stretch, but rather over the course of six days spanning nearly two weeks. This performance was not so complete, however. It traversed all six parts of the oratorio but cut 17 numbers. A few of the eliminated movements were chorale settings (but not the “passion chorale”!) and one was a passage of gospel narrative, but most of the cuts were in solo music: eight of the work’s 13 arias and four of its 10 instrumentally accompanied recitatives.

This tipped the balance in the work towards the gospel narrative and to the framing choruses and chorales. It inverts the emphasis of the original, in which commentary in the form of poetic movements and chorales dominates. And with 200 chorus members and 50 instrumentalists, the Sing-Akademie’s performance of this version emphasized the powerful presentation of fully scored movements performed by large forces. The result resembled the cut-down versions of the St. Matthew Passion presented by the organization; those performances also eliminated most of the work’s arias, and their overall effect was dominated by movements like the opening chorus and by the gospel narrative. The elimination of so many of the Christmas Oratorio’s arias helped temper aspects of the work that seemed problematic (poetic texts and settings that called for solo vocal virtuosity) and drew the work closer to the form in which the St. Matthew Passion was known.

The reception of the Christmas Oratorio has continued to be influenced by that 1829 performance of the St. Matthew Passion, which set the tone for the understanding of all of Bach’s sacred music. The various strategies that appeared to bring the Christmas Oratorio closer to Bach’s passions succeeded in explaining a puzzling work, but they established a particular perspective, inviting its interpretation in relation to the passions. The question posed in the Christmas Oratorio’s first chorale, “How shall I receive you?” is worth asking about the work itself. One answer is that we can try to listen to it for its own merits; we do not have to make Bach’s passion settings our first point of engagement with this matchless music.
